Kayaks making their way down the river during 2019's race.

By MONTY STEPHENS
Special to the Reporter

The “Eighth Annual BIG Little River Paddle Race” is scheduled for Saturday, April 25, 2020. Everyone that drinks or uses water needs to support this worthwhile “Cause.” The “Cause” is clean water in our rivers. This is a 6 mile canoe, kayak or paddle board race. It can be a leisurely float down the Withlacoochee River to the Florida state line or an “All out fierce race,” your choice. The WWALs Watershed Coalition is a non-profit organization that supports the Suwannee River Keeper.

The Suwannee River Keeper works to protect the Suwannee River and its tributaries, the Withlacoochee, Willacoochee, Alapaha, and the Little River. These rivers join together and become the Suwannee River as they flow through North Florida and out into the Gulf. Here is the problem, civilization in general, tends to create pollution.

The traditional method of dealing with pollution is to dump it somewhere, let the wind will blow it away, or dump it in a river. In other words, “Just get rid of it.” None of these methods deal with the real problem. Dumping pollution in the river just creates issues for people downstream. Since we’re in Florida, we’re “Downstream.” This is why we need a Riverkeeper.

Our Riverkeeper is Valdosta’s John Quarterman, who tests the waters of the Suwannee River Basin throughout south Georgia and into north Florida. He noted the major pollutant his organization detects in the waters is E. Coli bacteria. If sewage runoff from cities, homes, and farms are not disposed of properly, they all create pollution. The result can be water that is unsafe to swim in, contamination of wells/aquifer, and a loss of ecotourism revenue.

To the north of us, the City of Valdosta’s sewage treatment plant has had a lot of issues with polluting the rivers. In December 2019, an estimated volume of 7.5 million gallons of raw sewage was inadvertently released directly into the Willacoochee River (this was a well-publicized event.) Progress is being made though. Mr. Quarterman noted the City of Valdosta has a new Mayor, Scott James who is very ecological minded and is working to ensure “Spills” don’t happen again. Mayor Scott has even organized his own Paddle Race. In the interview, John adamantly stated it would be unfair to not mention the City of Valdosta’s City Council, previous Mayor and other City Officials have all worked diligently for years to correct ailing infrastructure issues associated with the sewage plant and storm drain runoff. Serious progress is being made.

Our rivers in North Florida are regarded as pristine and unspoiled. It’s important we work to keep them that way. So pre-register for the “Eighth Annual BIG Little River Paddle Race” by visiting <http://wwals.net/events-2/> to register. As previously noted, this race is scheduled for Saturday, April 25, 2020. The starting point is Sparks Georgia, Red Roberts Landing off of I-75 to be specific.

As an inside tip, the winner of the race has won two years in a row. I’m told he is from Florida somewhere around Flagler Beach. In order to beat this guy, an enticement of an “Extra” $200 will be awarded to the 1st place finisher that also beats his wining time.
