

Economics and Access

Economics

- The state has invested millions of dollars collected through license fees and federal funds (excise taxes on fishing equipment) to establish fisheries and boat ramps and to manage recreational fishing populations in Georgia rivers.
- DNR produced sportfish are stocked in rivers and reservoirs to maintain popular fisheries.

Access

SB 115 affirmed that all navigable streams continue to be open to the public for fishing, hunting, passage and more.

